A-current, see current, A-current adaptation in conductance model, see neurons, Wilson model neuron in LIF neuron, see leaky integrate-and-fire neuron regular spiking cell, 116 adaptive filtering, see control theory, Kalman filter alphabets
  and coding, 6, see also neural codes neural activity as, 7 physical properties as, 7, 29
AMPA receptors, 179, 246 analog-to-digital converter, 30 representation in, 31
Aristotle, 275
arm movement, 52–56, see also vector, representation cerebellum, 280
Cognit science, 219
coincidence detection, 155, see also transformations, nonlinear communication channel, 143
learning, 294
communication theory, see also information theory
computations, see transformations connection weights
  analytically determining, 145
  and dynamics, 228, 235
  biasing functions, 161
dynamically changing, 280 for cross product, 175 for nonlinear transformations, 158 for population-temporal representation, 146 for vector transformations, 152 forcing positive, 166
learning, see learning negative, 160–167
  standard problems with, 161 control theory, 2, 220
  adapted to neurobiology, 18
cerebellum, 280
communication theory, see also information theory
cerebellum, 280
cognitive science, 219
coincidence detection, 155, see also transformations, nonlinear
communication channel, 143
learning, 294
communication theory, see also information theory
cerebellum, 280
computations, see transformations
observability of, 17
without noise, 37
population-temporal, 131
representational, 9, 13 temporal, 92, 103, see also temporal representation
plausibility, 113
transformational, 13, 158, 176, see also transformations with basis vectors, 187, see also vectors, representation with PSCs, 113, 115
with temporal filters, 98 Deiters’ nucleus, 172
see also vestibular system, 350
delta function
as neural spike, 82, 92
to define tuning curves, 68 dendrites, 10
and subunits, 160
nonlinear, 154, 156, 159
synaptic dynamics, 223, 230 design specification
description of, 21
example, 46, 54, 74, 174, 264
dot product, 51n, 186
dynamic systems theory, 250, see also attractor networks and control theory, 258
and recurrent networks, 252 and single neurons, 120, 124 and subnetworks, 258
chaotic attractor, 259
cyclic attractor, 267
line attractor, 252, see also neural integrator plane attractor, 254 point attractor, 237, 251 ring attractor, 253, 257 dynamics, see also control theory
higher-level, 15
importance of, 219
Einstein, 168
encoding, 6, see also representation and connection weights, 17 binary, 31, 32
temporal, 92
with basis vectors, 187 eye position, see also neural integrator drift, 232
horizontal, 36, 44–49, 136–139, 232–243
Fourier basis, see basis functions Fourier decomposition, 65, see also basis functions function
decoding, 69
optimal linear, 68
design specification for, 75
encoding, 66
probability density function representation, 278 representation, 63–69
defining, 65
distinguishing from vector, 72 encoding function, 66
examples, 72
in LIP, 74
multi-modal, 79
population-temporal, 138
probability density functions, 278 relation to vectors, 69–72, 245
summary, 80
transformational, 200
functions
decoding, see also transformations defining sets of, 64
sets of coefficients, 70 estimating coefficients, 71 for temporal coding, 99
Monte Carlo estimates, 71
Γ’, 38
decomposition of, 192–196
with noise, 43
ganglion retinal, 7 head-direction system, 253 heterogeneity, 210–216
and dynamics, 257
and experiments, 12
and representational capacity, 213 and representational usefulness, 215 and supported transformations, 216
importance of, 210, 216
higher-level representation, see representation, higher-level hippocampus, 253
implementation
description of, 21
example, 47, 55, 58, 77, 136, 175, 233, 244, 265 information capacity, see neurons, information capacity of information theory, 2, 110, see also neurons, information capacity of interneurons, 161
jitter, see also noise
Index

and correlation times, 108
and temporal code, 133
in neural transmission, 41

Kalman filter, see control theory, Kalman filter Kirchoff, 85
labyrinths, 169, see also vestibular system lamprey, 260–273
and central pattern generators, 260
and control theory, 261, 265, 272
and traveling waves, 262 as a cyclic attractor, 267 biphasic oscillator models of, 260, 261 connectivity, 271
dynamic tensions in, 265 fluid dynamics and, 263 integrating top-down and bottom-up data, 260 locomotion, 260
mechanics of, 265
neurophysiology and behavior of, 261 simulating at multiple levels, 270 top-down and bottom-up data, 271 Laplace transform, 223
large-scale models
lamprey, 260
vestibular system, 168
working memory, 244
lateral intraparietal cortex, 64, 72, 244, see also working memory anatomy and physiology of, 73 function of, 73
neuron tuning curves in, 74 leaky integrate-and-fire neuron, 81–89
and correlation times, 109
as an RC circuit, 84
decoding spikes from, 107 derivation of, 83
effects of parameter changes, 87 implausibility, 88
information transmission in, 105–115 optimal temporal decoders, 105
plausibility, 82, 88
power in spike train, 108 rate equation derivation, 86 rate model, 36
voltage equation, 85
voltage trace, 82
with adaptation, 116
decoding, 119
information capacity, 118
learning, 293–300
analyzing weights from, 295 as fine tuning, 294 challenges posed by, 298 compared to analysis, 297 Hebbian, 294, 295
limitations, 14
the communication channel, 294 versus analysis, 14
Legendre basis, see basis functions LIF neuron, see leaky integrate-and-fire neuron linear systems theory, 219, see also control theory look-up table, 279
MatLab simulation package, xvii, 12n, 19 mean square error
and SVD, 195
and transformational decoders, 158 decreases as 1/√N, 47, 190 due to noise, 43
for temporal decoding, 100 matrix-vector notation, 192
minimizing, 38
residual, 209
static, 43
decreases as 1/N², 48
with noise, 42
without noise, 37
modern control theory, see control theory modularization, 151, 173 motor cortex, see arm movement MSE, see mean square error multiple level simulations, see lamprey negative weights, see connection weights, negative neural codes, see also representation not choosing between, 91 population, 11–13
rate, 7, 89, 108
synchrony, 7
timing, 7, 90, 108
neural control theory, see control theory, neural neural engineering addendum to principles of, 16, 18
defined, 1–3
first principle of, 15, 16, 39, 230 methodology, 15, 19–23
summary of, 22
principles of, 15–19, 230–231 second principle of, 15, 17, 231 third principle of, 15, 18, 231 neural integrator, 36, 44, 136, 232–243, see also eye position and cellular properties, 241 and network properties, 240 as a line attractor, 253 block diagram, 233
controlling dynamics of, 239 drift velocity of, 237 dynamics of, 238
effective time constant of, 235
goldfish, 19, 243
human, 243
input/output transfer function, 49

driving forces of, 238
effective time constant of, 235
goldfish, 19, 243
human, 243
input/output transfer function, 49

neurobiological systems as representing, 4–13 theory of, 23–25

neurons
adaptation, see adaptation affinity for performing statistical inference, 279 and inhibition, 161
and noise, see noise
and transistors, 11, 30, 33, 39, 40
as devices, 9–11, 41
biophysics of, 10, 34
canonical models, 115, 122 cell membrane, 83
classes of, 119, 124
conductance model, 123
diversity, 1, 2
heterogeneity of, see heterogeneity Hodgkin-Huxley, 123
identifying tuning curve of, 66 information capacity of, 10, 19, 40, 109–115
adapting LIF model, 118
conductance model, 125
LIF neuron, 112
LIF neuron with PSCs, 113, 115
model summary, 127
neurobiological examples, 110 per frequency channel, 111 θ-neuron model, 122
inhibition, 166
memory in, 10
pairs, 94–96, 242
and linearity, 95
examples, 94
persistent activity in, 252, see also working memory populations of, 11, see also population representation power consumption, 41 precision of, 10, see also neurons, information capacity of Purkinje cells, 280
regular spiking, 116
reliability, 41 response function defined, 34
θ-neuron model, 118
tuning curve defined, 34 various models of, 115–126

Wilson neuron model, 123
neuroscience
and dynamics, 219
and representation, 5
central problem of, 5
explanations in, 5
interplay of experiment and theory, 180 theoretical, xiii theory for, 24
Newton, 24, 29, 262
NMDA receptors, 179, 246 noise, 18, 40–44, 47, 55, 132, 208–210, 275, 284, 313 nonlinear control, see control theory, nonlinear nuclei prepositus hypoglossi, 36, 44, 232, see also neural integrator neuron tuning curve, 36
population tuning, 38

opponency in neurons, see neurons, pairs orthogonal basis, see basis vectors otoith, 168, 169, see also vestibular system overcomplete basis, see basis vectors pairs of neurons, see neurons, pairs pattern theory, 276, see also statistical inference PCA, see principle components analysis
PDF, see statistical inference, probability density function population representation, 12, 33–44 function, see function relation to temporal representation, 131 scalar, see scalar vector, see vector population-temporal filter, 131 population-temporal representation, 11, 129–132
and noise, 132–136
and PSCs, 132, 137
decoding, 140
encoding, 139
finding optimal filters, 132
Monte Carlo estimates, 132
of functions, 138
postsynaptic current, see temporal representation potassium current, see current, potassium primary visual cortex, 291 orientation tuning, 66 tuning curve, 67
principle components analysis, 192, 201 probability density function, see statistical inference, probability density function probability theory, 275, see also statistical inference PSC, see postsynaptic current pseudo-inverse, 209
push-pull amplifiers, 94
refractory period
  absolute, 83–85, 88, 105
  relative, 121
representation
  analysis, 185, 206–210
  and codes, 6
  analog, 9
  differences, 8
  and explanation, 4, 5
  and noise, 209, see also noise and use, 6, 180, 182
  basic, 48, 62, 225
  capacity, 207, 213
  discovering, 8, 180
  distributed, 33
  engineered, 30–33
  goodness of, 206
  and dynamics, 236, 237
  and heterogeneity, 210
  higher-level, 48, 62, 225
  importance of, 29
  improves as $1/N$, 47–48
  in digital computers, 30 in neuroscience, 6
  mixing levels of, 234
  Morse code, 6
  neurobiological, 4, 33, see also population-temporal representation matrix-vector notation, 192
  with noise, 42
  overcomplete, 190, 269, see also basis vectors population, see population representation population-temporal, see also population-temporal representation precision of, 44, see also noise quantifying usefulness, 208, 215 relation, 5, 181, 189 seeming arbitrariness of, 8, 180
  temporal, 81, see also temporal representation
  utility of, 4
  representational hierarchy, 13, 61–63 definition of levels, 80 multiple levels, 269
  table of, 63
  usefulness of, 62
  rostral medial vestibular nucleus, 36, 45, see also vestibular system saccular macula, 169 saddle-node bifurcation, 120, see also dynamic systems theory sampling densities, 2
scalar
  encoding magnitude, 30
  magnitude and unit, 29
  neuron tuning curve, 36
representation, 29, 42–44
  summary, 80
semicircular canals, 57, 168, 169, see also vestibular system
  biophysics of, 57
  shifter circuit, 280
  singular value decomposition, 78, 194 singular values, 194
  and importance, 197
  and noise, 209
  and vector transformations, 204 cutoff value, 209
  Gaussian versus linear populations, 205 sodium current, see current, sodium spin, see basis vectors stationarity, 99
statistical inference, 275–281
  and dynamics, 284
  and neural architectures, 279 and the Kalman filter, 287–293 bottom-up evidence, 280 conditional distribution, 277 disambiguating evidence, 281, 283 feed-forward, 278
  feedback architectures, 280 joint distribution, 276 marginal, 277
  multi-modal distributions, 277 non-stationary, 286
  parameter estimation, 283–287 probability density function, 277 top-down evidence, 280
SVD, see singular value decomposition system description
  description of, 19
  example, 44, 53, 57, 73, 169
temporal representation, 89–105
  and correlation times, 102, 107
  and encoding functions, 104 and neuron pairs, 96, 100
  and noise, 133
  and optimal filters, 102 and windowing data, 101 as linear filtering, 104 combining rate and timing codes, 91 debate concerning, 89
  decoding, 97, 103
  plausibility, 113
  with PSCs, 113, 115
  defining signal ensembles, 99
  encoding, 92
encoding and decoding process, 93 optimal filter, 106
optimal filter compared to PSC, 106 relation to population representation, 131 residual error, 102
top-down and bottom-up data integrating, see lamprey transformations, 13–15
addition, 148
analysis, 185, 196–205
and noise, 200
and dynamics, 14
and modularization, 150
and representation, 13
and SVD, 196
basis of ordering, 197
in communication channel, 143
in neurobiology, 143
linear, 143–152
nonlinear, 153–160
as cellular property, 155, 156
as network property, 157 cross product, 173
examples, 153
in neurobiology, 17
orthogonal basis of, 198 polynomial, 201
supported by Gaussian tuning curves, 204 supported by linear tuning curves, 200
utility of, 4
vector
analysis, 202
linear, 151
translational vestibular ocular reflex, 177 utricular macula, 169
vector
decoding, 52
optimal linear, 53
optimal versus non-optimal, 56
preferred direction, 53
defined, 185
encoding, 51
neuron tuning curve, 52
cosine, 52, 53
preferred direction, 51
relation to functions, 69–72 representation, 49–56, see also basis vectors equivalent, 62
examples, 49
orthogonal versus overcomplete, 59
summary, 80

with LIF neurons, 51
representation in vestibular system, 169 space defined, 186
vesicle unreliability, 41 vesibular system, 57–59, 168–182 working memory, 72–79, 244–249, see also lateral intraparietal cortex and activity bumps, 249 and decoded bumps, 248 increase in firing rate during, 250 multiple targets, 72, 244, 248 parametric, 73, 244, 248